ALLEGED FORGER IS UNDER ARREST

Crawfordsville Police Believe They Hold Man Who Passed a Worthless Check Here.

WANTED AT NORTH VERNON

Description Answers That of Joe Hudson, of Washington, Whose Wife is Under Arrest.

Chief of Police McCord received a message Friday night from the officers at Crawfordsville stating that they had under arrest a man who they believe is wanted here for forgery. The man is thought to be Joseph Hudson, alias Denver and Summers, of Washington, who is also wanted at North Vernon. Several days ago a stranger obtained $5 from a local merchant on a bogus check and the police sent word to the police departments of many Indiana cities of the forgery.

Word was received from Washington that Joseph Hudson was known in that city. Mrs. Hudson is alleged to have passed several worthless checks at North Vernon and obtained a total of $60 on the paper. His wife, who is nineteen years old, was arrested and bound over to the Jennings circuit court on a charge of forgery. Hudson left the city and it is believed that he came here.

The Crawfordsville police did not give the particulars of the arrest but it is the opinion of the local officers that Hudson was arrested there for attempting to pass forged checks. The Hudsons and the party who offered the bogus check here worked the same kind of a game which lead the police to believe that he is the one wanted here. As soon as the forgery was reported to the local police they sent a description of the man to a number of cities in Indiana and asked that he be arrested if located.

The Hudsons passed a number of checks on the First National Bank at North Vernon. They secured the blank checks from a drug store and obtained money on them by making small purchases at dry goods stores and asking that the difference between the amount of the purchase and the amount for which the check was drawn be paid them. One dealer discovered the "bad" check shortly after Mrs. Hudson left the store and the police were notified.

After visiting several stores the couple went to the B. & O. Southwestern depot and were waiting for a train for Mitchell. When they saw the police coming in their direction they ran and the young lady was arrested about a block from the station but her husband was successful in evading the officers. Mrs. Hudson was placed in jail to await trial in the circuit court having pleaded guilty at a preliminary hearing before the Mayor. She said her home was at Washington.

Later in the evening Hudson is alleged to have called at the house where he and his wife had secured lodging and asked permission to go to his room declaring that he had forgotten his marriage license. After he departed it was found that he went back after a bottle of whiskey.

The landlady told the police that she missed several articles from the room and the theft is laid upon Hudson.

The description of the man arrested at Crawfordsville corresponds exactly with Hudson. The Crawfordsville police will return their man to North Vernon and local people will identify them there.

THIEVES AT SPARKSVILLE ESCAPE WITH SACK OF LOOT

Thomas Newkirk's Store Entered and Burglars Secured $10 in Cash and Thirty-two Revolvers.

Burglars who entered Thomas Newkirk's store at Sparksville Thursday night have completely eluded the officers and no arrests have been made. The thieves secured $10 in cash and thirty-two revolvers. Bob Owens' blood hounds were taken to the store and followed a trail towards Medora. The dogs ran towards the river several miles from Sparksville and evidence was found on the bank to show that a boat had been landed there. Foot prints in the soft sand indicated that some one had left there during the night. This is the only clue the officers have.

Entrance to the store was gained through a cellar window and by then prying open a door leading to the main floor of the store. The basement window was covered with an old coffee sack and no trouble was experienced in gaining entrance. It is not believed that much stock other than the revolvers was taken. A number of robberies have occurred at Sparksville during the last year or so and it is thought to be the work of home talent.

PRIZE WINNERS TO RECEIVE FLOWERS FIRST OF THE WEEK

"Clean up and Paint up" Campaign
Closes Here Today—Has Been Very Successful.

The central committee in charge of the "clean up and paint up" campaign which closed today has announced that the flowers to be given as prizes to the school children who returned five or more signed cards will be distributed the first of next week. A record of all children who won prizes has been kept and the flowers will be sent to the different buildings and will be presented by the teachers. The plan of urging the observance of the campaign through the public and parochial schools was a decided success.

The city generally has been greatly improved in appearance as result of the campaign in which general interest was manifested. Many unsightly lots and alleys in which trash and rubbish had collected have been given attention and as a result the appearance of these places have not only been improved but the sanitary conditions are bettered.

In accordance with the plan the street department has been hauling away rubbish and trash today. A number of extra teams were employed for the day and every street and alley was visited. The street commissioner reports that several sections of the city which receive little attention by the residents have been greatly improved in appearance and the result is attributed almost entirely to the clean up campaign.

FOUR LODGES PLAN FOR MEMORIAL DAY

I. O. O. F., K. of P., Modern Woodmen and Red Men Will Honor
Deceased Members June 7.

JOINT EXERCISES ARRANGED

Ceremony at Riverview Cemetery
Will be in Charge of Odd Fellows——Battalion to Participate.

Following a custom established several years ago four local fraternal orders, I. O. O. F., K. of P., Modern Woodmen and Red Men, will hold joint Memorial Day exercises at Riverview cemetery on the afternoon of Sunday, June 7. Each year the services at the cemetery are in charge of one lodge and this year they will be conducted by the Odd Fellows.

The committees appointed by the several lodges have completed arrangements for the exercises. The members will meet at their respective halls and will form in line of march at the place to be appointed. The military organizations of the orders will participate in the parade.

The graves of the deceased members of the five orders will be decorated with flowers but the exercises will be conducted at only one grave. Each order will appoint flower bearers to carry the floral designs in the parade.

The exercises at the cemetery will be in charge of the Odd Fellows Lodge but it is not yet announced whether they will be in ritualistic form of a speaker will be engaged to give an address. The character of the exercises will be left to the lodge in charge. There will be no meeting in the city and all the exercises will be conducted at the cemetery.

A large number of citizens and friends of the various orders attend these exercises and a large crowd is expected at the ceremony this year. The combined membership of the four orders exceeds seven hundred.

Carnival Closes Tonight.

The Hart Carnival Company close their week's engagement here tonight. The weather has been against the shows and they claim to have lost heavily during the week. Much of their expense here, however, has been due to their fitting up for the summer season. The men connected with the company make a good impression as business men. They understand the carnival business and present a variety of shows. Out of this variety there are shows which will appeal to all classes of people. The attendance tonight will probably be large. The band will give a concert on the street at 7:15 and lead the way to the park as usual.

Hotpoint Week.

We are expecting large crowds to attend the electrical demonstrations during Hotpoint Week May 11-18. Refreshments will be served. Everybody welcome. Interstate Public Service Co. m15d

Notice.

On account of the storm the trash haulers did not get to make their full rounds today, but will make the north side of the city on Monday.

UNKNOWN COLORED MAN MEETS DEATH

Trespasser Run Down and Killed Instantly by I. C. & S. Traction Car near Franklin.

NO IDENTIFICATION MARKS

Reported Here that Description of Victim Answers that of Escaped Reformatory Convict.

An unidentified colored man was run down and killed instantly about 12:30 o'clock this morning by a southbound Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction car. The accident occurred near stop 25, a short distance north of Franklin and almost in front of the home of Frank P. Smith, an official of the traction company. The car left Indianapolis at 11:15 and is known as the "theater car."

The accident happened near a curve and the motorman could not see the man until the car was close to him. The car was brought to a stop within a short distance after it struck the man. Mr. Smith was notified of the accident and aided in the effort to identify the victim.

The man's clothing was searched but no letters, papers or other documents could be found that would reveal his name. The coroner was notified and ordered that the body be sent to Greenwood where it will be held while the effort to identify it is continued. At noon today the man's name had not been ascertained. At first it was thought that he was employed on a farm near Franklin but this was later discovered to be a mistake.

According to a report here today it was thought that the man might have been the convict who escaped from the Indiana Reformatory the first of this week. A Reformatory guard was here Tuesday night looking for the escaped convict and said that he was supposed to have started north from Jeffersonville. The police had kept watch for a man of the description given but failed to find any one who answered the description.

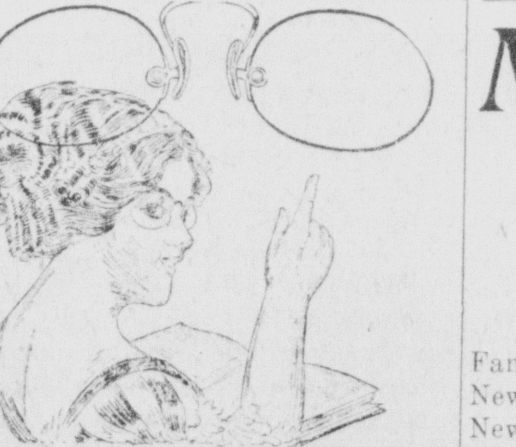

In several respects the escaped convict resembled the traction car victim. The dead man was about five feet and two inches tall and was about forty years of age. He wore a dark suit and a brown soft hat. The convict was reported to be low in stature and when he left the Reformatory was wearing a brown hat. Both were mulattoes.

The traction officials are endeavoring to identify the body and are aided by the coroner of Johnson county. The body will be held several days before it is buried. It is said that a further investigation will be made to ascertain if the victim was the escaped convict.

This is the first fatal accident that has occurred on the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Line for a number of years. The employees exercise greatest precaution in operating the cars and the company has an enviable record for safe operation of cars.

MILLIONAIRE CEREAL FOOD MAN DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich.,
Commits Suicide by Shooting—
Despondency is Cause.

Santa Barbara, Cal.,—C. W. Post, millionaire cereal man, committed suicide here today by shooting. He has been in failing health for some time and despondency is assigned as the cause for his rash act.

The cereal food business under the direction of Post made a rapid progress during the last few years and he became very wealthy. Post gained considerable notoriety a few years ago by discharging a large amount of dynamite in an attempt to produce rain. The experiment was followed by a steady downpour for several days and he claimed that it was a success. The weather department answered his claim by stating that the rain was approaching at the time the experiment was made.

Executed by Mexican Federals at Vera Cruz.

By United Press.
Washington, May 9.—Gen. Funston reported to the state department today that Orderly Parks has disappeared behind the Federal lines at Vera Cruz and it is feared that he has been executed.

Secretary Garrison continues to insist in answer to inquiries that no troops have been ordered to move but it is practically certain that he is preparing to reinforce the command at Vera Cruz.

RED MEN AT CROTHERSVILLE WILL ERECT NEW BUILDING

Specifications Completed for Two-Story Brick Structure—Bids
to be Received.

The Red Men at Crothersville are planning to erect a new lodge building and have the plans completed. Bids will be advertised for in a short time.

The Crothersville Herald says: Specifications have been made for a two story brick building to be erected on Main street by the local order of Red Men. The order has contemplated building for some time and as some few things did not work out as planned the date for advertising for bids was postponed. Everything is now in readiness and specifications are in the hands of the building committee ready for the contractor's inspection.

The building is to be a two story brick structure, 50x66 with an iron front, with a lodge room above and two business rooms below. The petition that separates these two rooms will be a removable one so that should any one business firm desire to rent the two rooms the petition can be removed. Two stairways will be made to the upstairs so that it will comply with the law in all respects. A metal roof will be used.

Violent Shocks Which Reduce Buildings to Ruins.

SOLDIERS SENT TO RESCUE

Horror Added to Situation by Threatened Eruption of Mr. Etna—Victims Buried in Debris.

Catania, Sicily, May 9.—At least one hundred persons were killed and as many more injured, as a result of the terrific earthquake which shook a score of towns and villages in this region last night.

Reports of dead and injured poured in on the authorities here today, and every effort was being made to care for refugees.

Fifty persons are known to have been killed in the village of Linera, which was destroyed. Among the ruins of Passopomo, Bongiaro and Malati, twenty bodies had been found early today.

The village of Bongiaro reported ten dead and twenty injured.

Liners, with a population of 952, and Santa Venerina, a town of 2,183, were completely destroyed.

At Zafferana every house was destroyed. Roofs fell in and walls collapsed in the hamlets of Santa Maria Ammalati, Carico, Guardia, Mangano, Santa Tecla and Bongiaro. The village of Santa Maria Vergine Catena was razed to the ground.

The great gravity of the disaster was not realized until today, when reports came in from the surrounding country.

Mt. Etna, which showed signs of an eruption about two weeks ago, was still active today.

The first quake was felt at 6 o'clock Friday evening. It continued several minutes and was followed by a second and more severe shock an hour later. It was the second shock that sent houses tumbling from the foundations, buried victims in the ruins and jarred the entire district in the vicinity of Mt. Etna.

In every village at the base of the famous volcano, the streets were soon jammed with men, women and children, rushing for the open country. Women ran screaming from the tottering walls of houses, with their children clinging to their skirts and crying piteously. The population poured into the open country with only such possessions as they could gather together hurriedly. All those who escaped death, spent the night in the open fields.

The members of the Franklin College base ball team, accompanied by Coach John Thurber, were here this morning on their way to Moores Hill where they will play this afternoon.

Miss Frances Bryant was presented with the diamond ring, the prize offered in the carnival queen contest.

THE MAKING OF A MODERN NEWSPAPER

MANY FACTORS ENTER INTO MAKING A PAPER SUCH AS THE DAILY REPUBLICAN

Three Departments Each With Its Distinct Line of Work Are Closely Interwoven and Interdependent in Making the Success of the Enterprise as a Whole.

HOW NEWS IS GATHERED AND PRINTED

Interesting Story of a Work That is Repeated Every Twenty-four Hours. Yet is Always New.—Growth of the Republican's Circulation and Business.

The primary purpose of the local newspaper is to furnish the news of its community. In addition to this its purpose is to discuss current events and to supply reading matter which will be both useful and entertaining. Another important feature is the advertising department through which it is the medium for handling store and business news of the merchants to their prospective customers. The value of newspaper advertising is determined by the number and character of people who read the paper, that is by its circulation. The circulation in turn depends on the amount the afternoon, along with the large volume of advertising which is carried would seem an impossible task if it were not done day after day. A single copy of the Daily Republican will carry an average of about 20,000 words of reading matter in addition to the advertising which appears in each issue. This is one-third to one-fourth as many words as the average novel carries. While it takes the novelist months to produce his work and his publisher weeks to print it, the newspaper must be made and printed within twenty-four hours. The successful achievement of such an undertaking requires extensive equipment and increasingly expensive machinery to keep pace with the growing demand. Publishing the newspaper falls naturally into three distinct parts: the editorial staff, the mechanical force and business management. The business department seeks to sell as many copies of each issue and as much advertising as possible, and to secure for the other departments such help as is needed for issuing the best possible paper on an economical basis. The business department divides itself into two departments, one the circulation management which looks after maintaining and increasing the number of readers obtainable for the paper, and the advertising department which looks to the soliciting of advertisements,—and when desired by the merchants, assisting them in preparing their copy, suggesting methods which will prove advantageous to the advertiser and in other ways aiding to develop this department in such a way as to win and hold the confidence both of the business man who advertises and of the newspaper patron who reads the advertisements. Where this is successfully done the reputation of a paper for carrying only legitimate advertising becomes a large asset and makes its columns increasingly valuable to those who have their wares to market.

The classified "adv." feature of this paper has come into general use by all classes of people. The man who this week advertised twenty shares of Seymour Improvement Co. stock for sale had a buyer in less than two hours after the Republican was delivered. This is only one sample of scores of advertisements of this class that have been equally successful.

Two Linotypes Which Set the Type for the Daily Republican.

and character of the news and other features of the paper. When a larger income is received from advertising and circulation it is used generally to increase and improve the reading matter of the paper, so that instead of advertising being a hindrance from the standpoint of the newspaper readers it really has the double advantage of enabling the newspaper to give its readers a better paper besides furnishing the readers with an opportunity to save money in their shopping. The advertising, circulation and news departments of a newspaper are closely interwoven one with another.

The growth in population of cities partly as a result of movement from country to city and partly as a result of the natural increase of population has made possible large increases in newspaper circulations. As a rule new papers have not been established to meet this growth in population but existing papers rather have added to the number of their readers and have improved their quality and increased their size, thus giving the readers in the community as well as the business men more effective service.

Making a newspaper is a process full of interest. In the case of a daily paper like the Seymour Republican and hundreds of other dailies through the country, each day's paper must be made on the day of its issue. It is impossible to issue tomorrow's paper today, so that a holiday may be taken, just as it is impossible to delay yesterday's paper until today. Each day must see its own work done with a rush and with an enthusiasm which becomes second nature to those who have had some experience and who delight in the "game."

To furnish for two cents delivered at the home a complete record of important events that take place in Seymour and vicinity together with a summary of the general news, all over the world up to the middle of which jumps the track. And so it is not because the crimes and the misfortunes of others are crimes and misfortunes but the fact that they are departures from the normal course that makes them news. The reporter must determine what feature will appeal to the reader as the most marked departure from the customary run of events. If the front wheels of a trolley car jumped the track and upset a baby carriage, throwing out the baby and if the baby alighted unharmed on a pillow that was tossed out of the carriage by the collision, such peculiar circumstances would appeal to most readers as a more interesting feature than the actual loss growing out of the accident.

Local events interest readers because they know the places and persons concerned; so local news takes precedence over all other news of equal importance and of much news of greater importance from other points at a distance. Interest in most news stories will vary inversely in proportion to the distance between the place where the event happened and the place where the paper is published. The burning of one building in Seymour is a larger news feature for the local paper than the burning of a dozen in Indianapolis or Chicago. The arrest of a man for speeding his automobile in Seymour will cause more comment among his friends than the arrest of a hundred "speed fiends" in New York. So every effort is made to bring news events even when they happen at a distance, into some local relationship.

One of the mysteries of news making to the uninitiated is how the reporters find out everything that happens and how they get it into print in such a short time. It seems strange to the average person that when an event occurs in the next block from the one in which he lives that the first news of it often reaches him through his newspaper. Public records often furnish a clue to a good newspaper story; a casual word dropped in a conversation will often give the "lead" for what will develop into a good news feature. The reporter gets the facts from every person whom he can reach who could possibly know some of the events. Eye witnesses to an occurrence vary so much in their description of what happened that the reporter often has to use his own judgment in selecting the facts and putting them into an accurate, readable story. It is not always easy to gain access to people who are to be interviewed and frequently when access is gained the person interviewed does not care to talk for publication, so no small amount of skill is necessary to secure the facts needed and yet violate no confidence which has been given to the reporter. One of the cardinal points with a good reporter is never to violate a confidence that has been reposed in him.

This sort of work requires acquaintance with all classes of people; the tactful handling of not only friends and acquaintances but of those who are frequently unfriendly; the gathering of news as unobtrusively as possible; the plan of never making an enemy needlessly and of never betraying a confidence no matter how big the "scoop" would be.

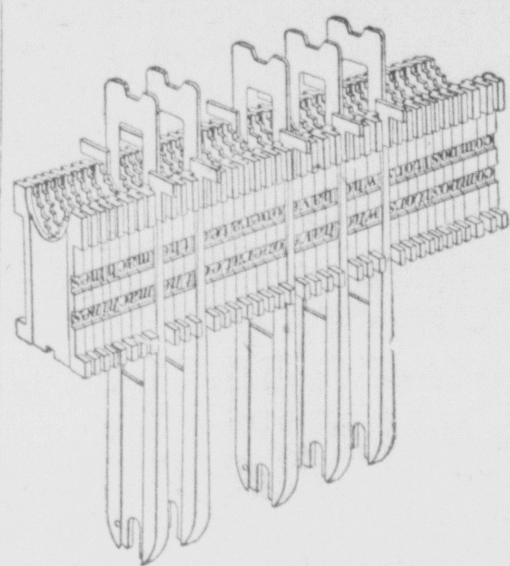

The mechanical department of the paper is an interesting line of work. This department must be ready to meet all sorts of emergencies, when the editorial department gets a big story at the last moment or when the advertising department secures an unusual run of business. The Daily Republican has one of the best equipments of any local newspaper in southern Indiana. There are two linotypes, one of which was installed about four years ago, the other about six weeks ago. These machines can each set more than a column of reading matter per hour, so that it is possible to handle a large amount of news each day.

The typesetting begins in the morning and is continued without interruption through the noon hour up to 3:30 or 4:00 o'clock, the hour of going to press.

When a piece of copy is received, the linotype operator places it on the machine directly over the key board. This key board is on the order of a typewriter key board although the arrangement of the letters is entirely different. When a key is struck a matrix drops from the magazine at the top of the machine into the assembly bar.

This matrix is a piece of brass metal into the side of which the face of the letter has been cut. In the two letter matrices such as the Republican uses two faces of the same letter are cut, one above the other, and it is possible to use either the upper or the lower style of letter at the option of the operator. Between the words a space band is dropped. These space bands are wedge shaped against the line of matrices and melted metal is pumped into the mold, casting the entire line in one piece. As soon as the slug is cast it is carried past trimming knives which trim the bottom and side of the slug to uniform height and thickness and the line is ejected from the mold into a galley ready for use. Meanwhile the matrices are picked up automatically and carried to the top of the magazine where they are dropped back by the machine each one into its own channel ready for release when the operator touches the key for this channel again. The magazines contain from ten to twenty-two of each letter and character used in typesetting so that there is always a supply of matrices in the magazine ready for use.

When the lines are set, they are put on the proof press and a printed copy or "proof" is taken. This proof is read by the editorial department and any errors which have been made in typesetting are marked on the proof. These proofs are taken back to the linotype machine where the operator resets every line which contains an error. When this is done the corrected lines are put in the galley in place of those containing the errors.

The type matter is then ready to be placed in the "forms". These "forms" are the pages of the paper as they will appear when the paper is printed. The newspaper foreman takes the galleys, sorts out the different kinds of reading matter which each contains. Sometimes one galley will have a half dozen different kinds of matter including personals, news paragraphs, editorial matter or other news features, all of which must be placed on the proper page in the paper. When the columns are all filled with type matter it is necessary to "justify", that is make each column exactly the same length. This is done with great care as the variation of a thirty-second of an inch will make trouble when the pages of type are lifted to be placed on the press.

When the pages are all ready the forms are placed on the cylinder press where they are locked on. This press is built so that each revolution of the cylinder produces a printed paper. The paper is fed from a feed table over the top of the cylinder into a set of grippers which carry it round over the type which has just been inked and deliver it at the rear of the machine. From the delivery table the papers are fed into the folder which delivers them folded three or four times at the option of the person operating the folder. The Republican then is ready for the carrier boys who take the number required for their route and hasten with them to all parts of the city for their subscribers. The papers which are not delivered in the city are put through a mailing machine which prints the names of the subscribers on the paper. These are wrapped and delivered to the postoffice for mailing.

The Republican has a very efficient corps of eleven carriers, boys who take pride in getting over their routes as quickly as possible and in doing all in their power to please their patrons. These boys are wide awake and active and constantly on the outlook for increasing their list of subscribers. These carriers who are shown in the group picture on this page deliver 1152 papers in the city of Seymour as follows:

Tom Humes .....130

Paul Hoffman .....129

John Connelly .....121

Leo Lewis .....112

Nelson Seymour .....106

Arthur Smith .....101

Ray Himebaugh .....101

Harry McBride .....90

Paul Tormohlen .....90

Willard Becker .....86

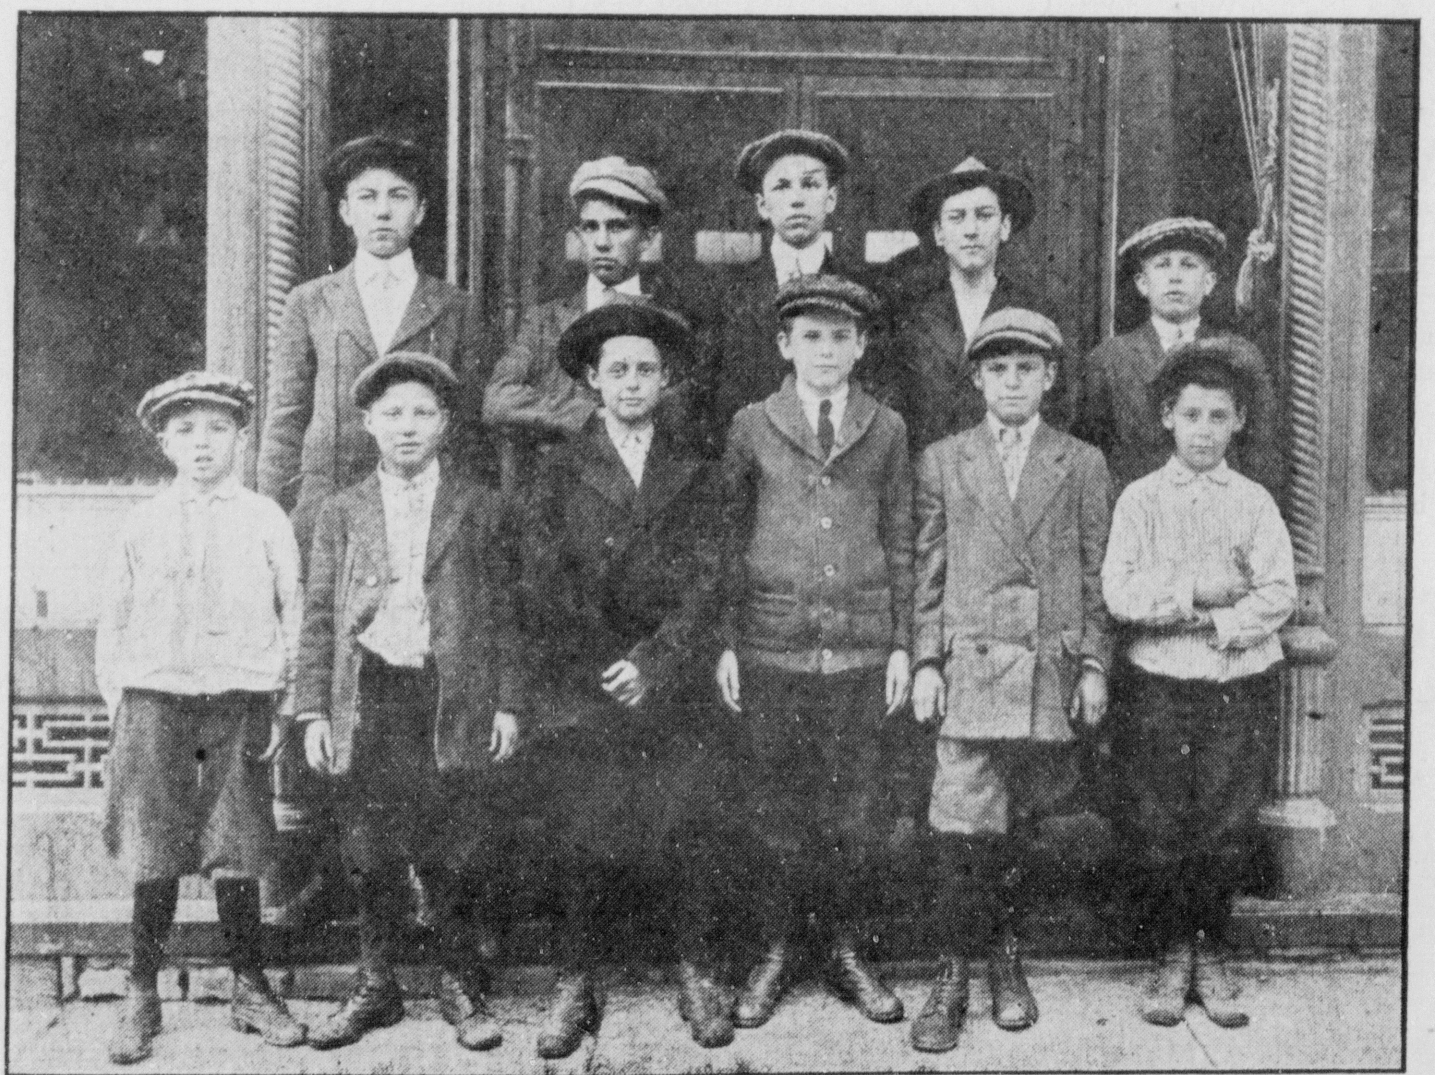

Eugene Smith .....86

This with the copies mailed makes the total average circulation of the Daily Republican 1387 copies. This is three times the number of papers issued when the present publisher came to Seymour, when about 450 copies were put out per day, and about double the number four years ago when the first linotype was installed. The Weekly Republican has shown a large growth too from 850 eighteen years ago to 2046 as the present average.

If you would like to see a newspaper in the making you are welcome to call at any time and look through the Daily Republican office.

The Republican also maintains a well equipped job department in charge of a competent foreman with several printers who handle anything in the printing line from an envelope to a book. The business in this department has shown a very large growth in the last few years especially since the installation of the linotypes which aid materially in the setting of type for book work, and the addition of a two revolution cylinder press in addition to the cylinder press used for printing the newspaper. Two job presses, besides perforator, stitching machine, paper cutter and other machinery give this department an equipment among the best in southern Indiana. This department also handles the publication of the Baptist Observer which is a sixteen page paper of which 3,700 copies are issued and mailed every week.

In conclusion the Republican wishes to express its appreciation of the growing patronage that has been accorded the paper. It shall continue to keep at the front the mottoes of its three departments,—for the news department the printing of "More and when the line is ready for casting the wedge shaped bands are pushed up by the machine so that they widen the space between the words until the length of the line is snugly filled. When this is done the mechanism containing the mold in which the line is cast closes up of the cylinder produces a printed paper. The paper is fed from a feed table over the top of the cylinder into a set of grippers which carry it round over the type which has just been inked and deliver it at the rear of the machine. From the delivery table the papers are fed into the

THE TERRE-HAUTE ACQUITTAL.

The acquittal of Mayor Roberts at Terre Haute is regarded everywhere as a distinct triumph for lawlessness. He had been on trial for fifty-one days on the charge of violating election laws and of encouraging illegal voting in the Terre Haute elections. Much evidence was produced tending to show the guilt of the Mayor and this evidence was accepted by most people as conclusive. The rowdy demonstrations which followed the acquittal at eleven o'clock at night when the saloon men, the gamblers and people of the tenderloin formed a parade headed by Mayor Roberts and marched about the streets until two o'clock in the morning, will not add to the respect for decency and law abiding spirit in Terre Haute. Nor will the influence be good in the state.

There is only one redeeming feature to the whole affair. It has given the people of Indiana an object lesson of the kind of government they may expect under brewery domination. For years Terre Haute has been controlled by brewery interests under the leadership of Crawford Fairbanks. Conditions had grown steadily worse until decent people undertook to correct the evils through the forms of the law. And the courts have failed them. The one redeeming feature is that having seen the evil there will come a reaction which will sweep the entire saloon interests from the state. The reaction may not come in a week or a month. It may require three or four years, but come it will and with such force that men will marvel that they ever tolerated such conditions as Terre Haute's disgrace has shown to the world. Men of integrity and honor will be placed in office and in charge of the courts even in Terre Haute. Backed by the righteous public opinion of a people whose desire for decency has been trampled upon the day will come when the courts and the officers will see that the law is enforced.

There is a rapidly growing sentiment everywhere which demands men of high moral character in office. People are not tied by party lines as they once were. There is more independent voting and it is well that there is. People will select among the candidates for office that man, from whatever party he comes, who can best prove his right to a public trust by the record of his private life. More and more it is becoming useless to nominate for public office men who wink at lawlessness, men who seek support from the vicious elements of society. In such cases there are always expected favors in return when such a man is in office. The party which hopes to win permanently must name as its candidates men who can show a clean record, and in whose integrity the people believe because of the high standard of their personal and business life.

FARMERS' CLUBHOUSES.
(Indianapolis News.)

A happy thought and a commendable idea are embodied in the proposition originated at Seymour, Ind., to establish a sort of clubhouse or social center for county farmers visiting the city. The movement is in good hands and bears the impression of practical thought. It is proposed to erect a large building with many of the conveniences of a modern clubhouse, such as a sitting room, lunch-room, reading room, rest-room for women, etc., every part of which shall be free to Jackson county farmers visiting the city, without the formality of becoming members and without initiation fees or dues. The building is to be erected as a memorial to a prominent pioneer citizen of Jackson county and will be equipped and endowed by his estate, under an incorporated management that will be in sympathy with its purposes and know how to carry them out.

This is, we believe, the first attempt in this or any other state by the people of a county to establish such an institution for the visiting farmers of the county. Entirely original in conception, it seems to be an outgrowth of the new social life which is stirring in many directions and beginning to formulate new plans of a healthier socialism on individual lines. We need to know ourselves and one another better. The cities and the country and all classes need to get closer together. Much has been done in this direction by the interurban cars and trolley lines, by the telephone and automobile, but they have only made a beginning. There is still too much aloofness among people while classes and communities grow apart. Residents of the country should be made to feel perfectly at home in the city, not only at home, but welcome.

A farmers' clubhouse in every county seat in Indiana, an attractive, homelike place where every farmer in the county would feel free to go with his family and lunch basket and feel sure of meeting some one who could talk crops, markets or politics with him, ninety-two such farmers' clubhouses in the ninety-two counties of the state, would be another thing to make Indiana talked about. Seymour is about to set a fine example.

MOTHERS' DAY.

By a joint resolution which has been adopted in Congress the second Sunday in May has been set aside as Mothers' Day and will be observed as a national holiday. The President is directed to see that the day is observed as such throughout the United States by the display of flags on all government buildings and by public proclamation requesting all persons to exhibit the national colors.

Tomorrow will be observed as Mother's Day by many of the churches all over the nation. The founder of the day is Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. She with the assistance of Dr. George W. Bailey prominent for years in International Sunday School work has been able in a very few years to get the idea before the world for general observance.

The white carnation was chosen by the founder as the special emblem of the day because it may be thought to typify the virtues of motherhood. Its whiteness stands for purity; its form beauty; its fragrance love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting qualities, fidelity. It is the thought of the founder to make only the white flower the emblem of the day without any distinction between those whose mother is living and those whose mother has passed into the larger life.

The duties of a mother are multi-fold and oftentimes very trying, yet through them all she cares for her children with a love that can never be erased from their memories. The sweetest thoughts to be recalled are those of an unbroken family circle in which mother occupies a place peculiarly characterized by love and profound respect. The life of every man and every woman is moulded to a very large extent by a mother's influence. Her advice and admonition is some way different from that received from anyone else and goes deep into the heart of a son or daughter.

We are all glad to honor mother. We regret that our love and respect for her cannot be shown in a greater measure. We are all glad that the day is to become a national holiday, so that throughout this broad land we can accord the reverence, love and respect which is due "Mother."

Republican Township Convention.

A mass convention of the Republicans of Jackson township will be held Friday evening, May 22, 1914, at 8 o'clock at the city building, Seymour, Indiana, for the purpose of nominating candidates for township trustee, township assessor, justices of the peace and constables to be voted for at the general election to be held Nov. 3, 1914.

DICTATOR HUERTA TRYING TO FORCE TROUBLE WITH U. S.

Actions Bear Indications That He is Proceeding With Studied Purpose to Provoke U. S.

(Special to Seymour Republican)

Washington, May 9.—Senator Shively, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, said that there is every indication that Huerta is proceeding with a studied purpose to provoke the United States into making a move on the City of Mexico. The senator said it seemed perfectly apparent that the disappearance of Vice Consul Hillman is part of this plan.

"There is no doubt at all," said Senator Shively, "that the insult to the flag at Tampico was deliberately arranged through Huerta's orders to provoke the United States. Huerta sees that his finish is near and he can surrender to the United States with better grace than to the Constitutionalists."

If it becomes necessary to invade Mexico Shively is in favor of a short, sharp, decisive move on Mexico City. He shares the common belief that mediation is a failure and that the United States will have to send its armies into Mexico.

Will Not Be Asked to Resign.

The department of justice denied the report that Edward H. Schmidt, United States marshal for Indiana, would soon be asked to resign. It was said that Mr. Schmidt has made a satisfactory record and that he is highly regarded by the attorney general and his subordinates. No charges have been filed against Mr. Schmidt and those who are in a position to know insisted that his resignation would not be called for.

When Mr. Schmidt completes his full term of office, it is definitely known that the Indiana senators will ask that Mark Storen, Scottsburg, be appointed to succeed him.

EXECUTIVE BOARD DECIDES AGAINST GENERAL STRIKE

United Mine Workers Adopt "Watchful Waiting" Policy in Colorado Trouble.

(Special to Seymour Republican)

Indianapolis, May 9.—The general executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, adopting a "watchful waiting" policy regarding the strife in the Colorado coal strike districts, issued a statement declaring a general strike of 500,000 miners as a protest against conditions in that state, to be inexpedient at this time.

In response to the flood of resolutions which have come to the international headquarters asking that a general strike be called, the board in its statement urges that it is not the part of wisdom for the miners in the organized states to engage in a general strike at this time, "believing that we can better aid our gallant brothers in Colorado by remaining at work, thus insuring in a financial way our fullest support to the men, women and children who have been so long engaged in the great industrial struggle in Colorado."

Along with the statement declaring a general strike not to be feasible, the board made public a long history of the Colorado industrial war, placing the responsibility for the bloodshed in the districts on the refusal of the mine owners to agree to any means of settlement, and declaring that the only "honorable and humane way by which this can be established is through a conference of the representatives of both sides, at which a settlement, honorable and just, is brought about."

The name of John D. Rockefeller Jr., figures prominently in the history as being, in the minds of the board, greatly to blame for the conditions.

The Housewife's Week.

"Feeling Mondayish?" said a man at the club. "What's that?" There were explanations, which suggested that the Mondayish feeling was a survival from school days. The man with the Monday feeling admitted he had that slack feeling on the second day of the week, but that as the years had passed Monday had become to him just washing day. This is how he described the week: Monday, washing day; Tuesday, ironing day; Wednesday, matinee day; Thursday, early closing day; Friday, tidying up day; Saturday, shopping day, and Sunday the day of rest. The labels were not his own, but his wife's. —London Standard.

A Tiny Farm For a Dime.

Land is cheap. For easy figuring let us say it is worth $100 an acre. A square rod, then, is worth only $1, and 10 cents' worth will be a little more than twenty-seven square feet, or a little farm slightly more than five feet on a side.

How often a boy will waste a dime and think nothing of it. For a dime he can buy land enough to hold a flower bed, four hills of clover or a peach tree! The boy who can save a dime can become rich. Make a dime look like a tiny farm. The boy who learns to save a dime and to know values will some day come into his own. —Breeder's Gazette.

Men and Women and Love.

Swedenborg once observed that woman seeks in man something good which she really loves as true, as an expression of wisdom; the man, on the other side, seeks in woman something good which he really loves as beautiful.

HUERTA EXHIBITS INDIAN CUNNING

Mexican Dictator Takes Advantage of the Truce.

ADMINISTRATION'S HANDS TIED

Action of the Mexican Government in Securing Munitions of War Through Puerto Mexico in the Face of Our Assurance That Vera Cruz Is Our Only Objective Point in Mexico, Embarrasses This Government.

Washington, May 9.—The medaitors in the Mexican situation have received word from Huerta that his three representatives to the coming peace conference left Mexico City for Niagara Falls today by way of Vera Cruz.

Washington, May 9.—Developments indicate that the United States is rapidly losing hope of any settlement of the Mexican situation through mediation. Upon the receipt of a warning from Huerta that he might feel obliged to withdraw from the mediation proceedings, the war department began to rush arrangements for the removal of more troops to Vera Cruz at a moment's notice. Six new transports were chartered for the purpose of moving two more brigades from Galveston in the event of an emergency. No orders have yet been issued for an aggressive move, but the imminence of such a development is clearly suggested by the present activity.

The receipt of Huerta's warning note and reports of the probable downfall of his government are the chief factors that have spurred the United States to renewed warlike preparations.

Added to these came the disquieting news that two German merchant vessels are approaching Puerto Mexico, on the gulf coast, with large supplies of guns and ammunition consigned to Huerta's forces.

The Washington government was deeply perturbed over the news of these latest shipments of munitions of war. Secretary of the Navy Daniels immediately took steps to have Admiral Badger at Vera Cruz ascertain if possible the character of the cargo and other details. Apparently the only way in which the United States can prevent these large consignments of guns and ammunition from falling into the hands of Huerta will be through the good offices of the German government itself.

Administration's Hands Tied.

Ways and means dealing with this situation were considered by United States officials, but no plan of action was announced. The United States finds its hands almost completely tied in the matter of seizing the custom house at Puerto Mexico as at Vera Cruz. Such an act would end the mediation proceedings and would be seized upon by Huerta as the basis for a charge of bad faith on the part of this government.

Furthermore, the seizure of Puerto Mexico would be tantamount to a declaration of war, for the United States already has announced that its program toward Mexico contemplated only the seizure of Vera Cruz as a single act of reprisal for the insults to the flag at Tampico.

There is reason to believe, however, that some of the warships under Admiral Badger at Vera Cruz have received orders to proceed to Puerto Mexico if only for the purpose of obtaining at first hand what the situation is there. The arrival of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie at Puerto Mexico and the approach of another vessel with a similar cargo, were immediately accepted here as evidence of Huerta's cleverness in taking advantage of the suspension of hostilities to equip himself for the future.

Huerta's Disturbing Note.

The disturbing note from Huerta in regard to the mediation proceedings came to the South American diplomats who initiated the negotiations. Huerta protested that the United States was violating the spirit of the understanding for a suspension of hostilities pending the mediation negotiations. Huerta cited the extension of the American lines outside of Vera Cruz, the erection of fortifications and the landing of a transport filled with American troops at the Mexican port after the suspension of hostilities had become effective. The troops in this transport were those that had been ordered from Galveston before any understanding had been reached in regard to a cessation of fighting. Huerta warned the United States between lines that he might feel obliged to withdraw from the mediation proceedings if there were further activities on the part of the United States.

Secretary Bryan immediately prepared an answer to the Huerta note. He denied that the United States had in any way violated the understanding in regard to a suspension of hostilities. Mr. Bryan himself has pointed out that there has been no formal armistice between Huerta and this government. Neither party made any stipulation as to preparing for war. There is a question therefore whether Huerta's renewed importation of arms and ammunition could be regarded by this government as a violation of the understanding.

Notice of Public Hearing.

Seymour, Ind., May 2, 1914.
To Whom It May Concern:

You are hereby notified that the Common Council of the city of Seymour, Indiana, did on the 30th day of April, 1914, adopt a resolution that an improvement be made in said city as follows:

That it is desired and deemed necessary to construct on and along West Seventh street from west line of Chestnut street, to the west line of Pine street an improvement as follows:

That the roadway of said West Seventh street for the distance and between the points aforesaid, and the roadway of all intersecting and entering streets and alleys lying within said portion of said West Seventh street not included in the roadway thereof (and which roadway of the crossings and abutting streets and alleys be improved to the property line of said West Seventh street) be improved by grading, curb and guttering (where necessary) and placing marginal stone curbing at all terminals; and paving the roadway of said street and intersections with sheet asphalt, Portland Cement Concrete, wooden crosotied block, bituminous macadam or vitrified brick on a foundation from gutter line to gutter line to the full width of said street as shown on the plans and in accordance with the profile, details, drawings and specifications on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City, which specifications are hereby approved and adopted, the same being incorporated herein and made a part hereof, and such improvement is now ordered.

The cost of the improvement herein provided for, except street and alley intersections, shall be paid by special assessment to be levied upon the property specially benefited, to the amount that the same may be legally assessed therefor, in accordance with the Act of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, entitled, "An Act Concerning Municipal Corporations", approved March 6th, 1905, and in accordance with and pursuant to the provisions of all Acts amendatory and supplemental thereto.

The cost of all street and alley intersections, including one half of the width of the street or alley opposite streets and alleys, and alleys which run into, but do not cross the street herein proposed to be improved, and that portion of such street abutting upon property belonging to the City, or upon property not subject to such assessment, shall be paid by the City in cash out of its general fund, if able to do so, or from a fund created by a special assessment to be levied under the provisions of the aforesaid Act. Assessments of property owners, if deferred, are to be paid in ten equal installments with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum.

Under no circumstances shall the City of Seymour, be, or be held responsible for any sum or sums due from any property owner or owners for said work, or for the collection of the same, or for the payment of any bond or bonds, certificate or certificates, issued to the contractor in payment for such work, except for such moneys as said City is by said Act required to pay. All proceedings had, and work done in the making of said improvement, assessment of property, collection of assessments and issuance of bonds therefor, shall be as provided for in said above entitled Act, and Acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

That said Common Council has fixed the 28th day of May, 1914, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber in said City, as the time and place for the public consideration of the proposed improvement, at which time said Common Council will hear all persons interested, or whose property is liable to be assessed for said improvement, and will decide whether the benefits to the property liable to be assessed for such improvement will equal the estimated cost thereof.

By order of the Common Council.

Notice to Contractors.

Seymour, Indiana, May 2nd, 1914.
Sealed proposals for the following described work will be received by the Common Council of the City of Seymour, Indiana, at the office of the City Clerk of said City until 7:30 o'clock p. m. on the 28th day of May, 1914, at which hour the bids will be publicly opened and duly considered, for the construction of the following described improvement: Paving West Second street from Chestnut to East line of Walnut Street and from the West line of Walnut street to East line of Central Avenue, with Sheet Asphalt, Portland Cement Concrete, Wooden Crosotied Block, Bituminous Macadam or Vitrified Brick on a macadam foundation, as authorized by Improvement Resolution No. 65 passed and adopted by the said Com-

DAY-TIME FROCKS ARE OF TWO TYPES, DRAPED AND PLAIN

Straight-lined frocks with perfectly plain skirts, or having a circular tunic or two about the hips are quite as modish as the draped models. Although the skirt shows a certain tendency to become a trifle wider at the bottom, it is still scant. Blouses show variations of the drop and kimono shoulder and of the vest; this vest offers the most plausible way of introducing as a bit of contrast a figured silk or tapestry. On many of the summer frocks the vest, collar and often the cuffs are of white organdy or sheer white voile.

No. 8195 is a rather dressy frock of dove-gray eponge, with gathered tucker of net; girdle, collar and cuffs of purple taffetas. The bodice is a kimono with a draped elbow sleeve, gathered vest and Medici collar that may be wired high in the back if desired; the skirt is a two-gored model with a double tunic. This dress may be copied in size 36, with 4½ yards of 42-inch eponge.

A draped Japanese collar, extending into a vest, adds an unusual touch to the frock of champagne voile piped with black, shown in No. 8189. The vest and collar are of white voile and the girdle is black taffeta. 4½ yards of 36-inch material are required to make this dress in size 36.

No. 8195—sizes 34 to 44.
No. 8189—sizes 34 to 44.
Each pattern 15 cents.

Americans May Have to Take Puerto Mexico.

ADMIRAL WINSLOW GETS BUSY

Special Service Squadron at Vera Cruz Is Put in Readiness For an Instant Dash to Puerto Mexico to Interrupt and Seize a Big Shipment of Arms Due There on German Vessel For Huerta's Forces.

Vera Cruz, May 9.—Rear Admiral Badger has a dispatch from Admiral Mayo at Tampico stating that there was some firing ashore during yesterday, but otherwise no new developments.

Vera Cruz, May 9.—Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow's special service squadron, augmented by the battleships Michigan and Minnesota, are waiting the word from Washington to dash down to Puerto Mexico and seize its port and customs house.

The orderly routine of the fleet was disturbed by a report which came to Admiral Badger that two German steamers are nearing the port at the isthmus of Tehuantepec with heavy cargoes of arms and ammunition consigned to General Huerta. Admiral Badger promptly informed Washington and then called Admiral Winslow over from the big New York for a conference. Replies from Washington soon were followed by the announcement that the Michigan had been detached from the second division and the Minnesota from the fifth and attached to the special service squadron. Then ensued a vast deal of hurrying and scurrying on all of Winslow's vessels. The Chester, the Eagle and the Salem and Nashville immediately became centers of activity. All shore liberty was stopped for the men and those ashore were recalled. Supplies needed were immediately placed aboard and every preparation made for the sailing on receipt of orders. With the dreadnought New York, backed by the lighter draught vessels, there will be no difficulty in seizing Puerto Mexico, although it has a federal force of about 600 at last reports. It is an open harbor with deep water up to the long steel piers, and the town itself is wholly at the mercy of big guns.

Colonel's Orderly Killed.

Vera Cruz, May 9.—Private Parks, orderly of Lieutenant Colonel Taggart, crazed by the heat, wandered beyond the outpost lines and was found dead last evening, his body riddled by military bullets. It is supposed that the federal shot him, as the federal have Colonel Taggart's horses at Tejeria. These horses were taken by Parks on his rambles.

IN THE NAME OF THE NATION

The President Will Make Address at Funeral of Naval Heroes.

Washington, May 9.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels left Washington at midnight last night on the president's yacht, the Mayflower, to meet the funeral ship, the cruiser Montana, which is bearing the bodies of the sailors and marines who died at Vera Cruz.

The Mayflower will meet the Montana outside the capes of the Chesapeake and accompany her to New York. Off Sandy Hook the cruiser Tennessee and the battleship Wyoming will meet the funeral ship and the Mayflower and convey them to the Battery. The bodies of the men will be landed at the Battery Sunday afternoon or night.

President Wilson, who will leave Washington by train Sunday night, will make the only address immediately after the prayer by Chaplain Casard of the naval academy. The president made it clear that he will not be present in his personal capacity, but to express the sorrow of the nation for the willing sacrifice made by the Vera Cruz heroes, and in the name of the nation do them all the honor in his power.

TO EMBARK FOR VERA CRUZ

More Troops Said to Be Necessary to Hold Gulf Port.

Galveston, May 9.—Coming in connection with the announcement that Major General Bell, who was appointed to relieve General Carter here, would take active charge of the second division of the United States army here today, the commandeering of two large steamers by the government has led to conclusions among army officers that all forces stationed here will be ordered to embark for Vera Cruz within the next few hours. Indeed, it was unofficially stated that orders to be ready to embark promptly had already been received.

There are sealed orders awaiting General Bell upon his arrival. It was learned that these pertain to movement of troops.

CHAPTER XII.

New York was knee deep in a blizzard that had been raging all day. Sleet and snow swept and eddied in blustering gales at every street corner. Taxicabs and motors plowed their way along, their occupants bundled up to their eyes in wraps and furs. The few pedestrians breasting the bitter east wind felt the cold to their very marrow. With their shoulders hunched and their heads bent forward, they hurried along under the lee of the buildings, envying the fortunates who could afford the shelter of a cab.

One woman struggled bravely to keep her umbrella up until she came to the bright lights of a cheap restaurant, where, out of breath and covered with snow, she closed the unwieldy and inadequate protection and went in. In her long fur coat and her trim hat covered by a soft gray veil, she seemed out of place as she made her way to an empty table. All around her were shabby figures, chorus girls having some toast and cocoa after the show, a pair of red-faced chauffeurs, and all the other typical patrons of the griddle-cake restaurant.

Laying aside her wraps and putting her umbrella against the table, mindful of the numerous signs which betrayed the fact that the management was not responsible for lost articles, she ordered a cup of coffee and some crackers and milk.

"Talk about your western blizzards!" exclaimed one of the chauffeurs. "If this is a sample of your eastern weather I'll stick to my job with Governor Slade and you can keep your job with Governor Sulzer."

"Why didn't you go into the hall and listen to your boss talk?" asked his companion.

"Say, did you ever hear the same speech over and over? It's a great speech, but hearing it ever since we left home—the pause was significant."

"Do you go everywhere with your boss?"

"You bet," answered the other, "but this is the first time we've been East."

"Say, they call your old man the 'divorced' governor, don't they?" queried Sulzer's man.

"Yep," Slade's chauffeur lapsed monosyllabic.

"Great note—a man runnin' for office and being divorced at the same time," came the comment. "But he got elected just the same. Governor Sulzer said he was all right when he put our car at his disposal."

"But you noticed my old man wanted me on the box, too?" chuckled the other. "When I'm not drivin' I'm along jest the same."

"What do you do?"

"Oh, answer questions mostly. He's a great responsibility—a governor is—I have to keep my eye on him."

Her Eyes Showed Amazement.

"Why? Did they ever try to assassinate him?"

"Nope! Nearest they came to it was takin' him through Central park on your New York city pavements. But they did present him with a baby catamount in Carson City. I had to receive it."

"What did Mrs. Slade do?" Sulzer's man was patently more interested in the divorce than any other matter connected with Governor Slade. "Was she a high-stepper?"

"Naw," came the disgusted reply. "Well, what'd he do then that they got divorced."

"Say, are you looking for trouble? Where I come from they don't criticize my old man. He runs things out there. I've had enough of this 'divorced governor' business. I don't know whose fault it is. She wanted it and he didn't, and she got it! When a woman knows what she wants," and he banged his fist down on the table, "she's going to get it! Now, shut up and have another cup of coffee."

The New York driver looked at the raw-boned westerner and then proceeded to become absorbed in the all-important matter of consuming the largest possible number of griddle cakes in the least possible time.

"Well," remarked the sociable waiter, as he brought another cup of coffee, "I guess we don't get any of your crowd tonight."

"You wouldn't get our crowd anyway!" And the westerner inflated his chest. "Our bosses are quail-on-toast boys."

"And champagne, too, I suppose?"

"Nope, my boss don't drink, don't smoke, don't keep yachts or horses, don't keep wom—" He stopped as he realized that he was talking loudly.

The little woman quietly eating crackers and milk looked up as she heard the old, familiar formula.

"Why, Jake!" she exclaimed in quick surprise. The westerner jumped up hastily and looked to see where the voice came from. There was only one voice as sweet and gentle as that; it was the voice of a woman who had been the best friend he had ever had.

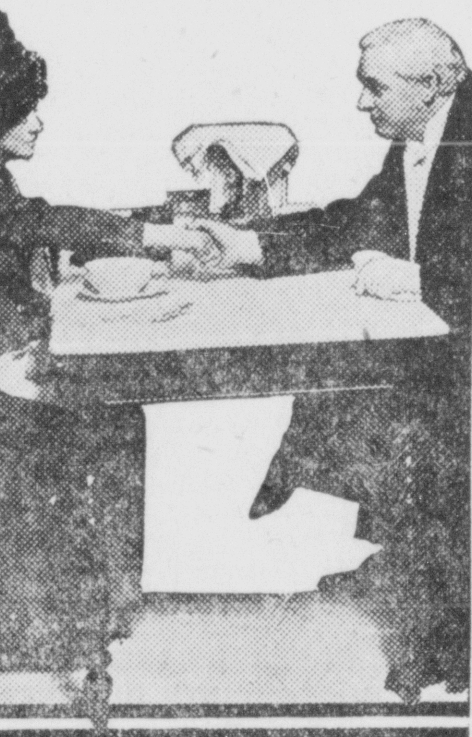

"Why, Mrs. Slade!" he exclaimed gladly, as he recognized her in spite of the fact that her hair had grown grayer and that she was a much trimmer figure than she had been when he last seen her.

"I recognized your word," she laughed as he came over to her table.

"I've kind of got that by heart hearing it so often," Jack stammered. Then turning to his companion, he asked him to go on alone.

"What are you doin' here, on a night like this?" he asked as he drew up a chair beside Mary.

"Oh, I often come here," replied Mary. "It's late, though. I'm glad to see you, Jake; it's so seldom I see a face I know," and she looked at him intently, and Jake thought a bit of her old wistful look crept into her eyes.

"I Want You Because You Are My Girl."

"I've been to the meetin' tonight, Jake," she explained. "I wanted to hear Mr. Slade. I saw in the paper he was goin' to speak."

"We kind of—we didn't always know jest where you were," Jake told her, his surprise and pleasure at meeting her so unexpectedly putting him at a loss to know what to say.

"Oh, I drift round," Mary told him. "I live near here. I got tired of hotels, they're public and lonely. And boarding houses—well, people are so inquisitive. So I got a nice, pleasant furnished room and go out for my meals. I come here because it's cozy. Is Mr. Slade well?"

"Yes."

"Very well."

"The governor's very well."

"Do you make him wrap up nights—weather like this? Do you get him to put on his rubbers?" and her voice was very tender.

"I sure do," laughed Jake. "I make him do everything you did. That's why I'm East with him."

"You're a good boy, Jake," and she reached forward and patted his hand.

"Tell me, does he always get the applause he did tonight?" she asked, eagerly. "I was very proud. He got three times as much as anyone else. I found myself applauding, too."

"You bet he does," Jake was very proud of his "old man." "He gets over. The other four western governors. We're traveling with them—ain't heard. Do you think you'll ever come West again, Mrs. Slade?"

"No," answered Mary, decisively. "I'm pushin' right ahead. I'm going to Europe next. Jake, I'm a citizen of the world now."

"Well," Jake got to his feet. A sudden resolution had formed in his mind as he heard about the contemplated trip to Europe. He hadn't been with the governor daily for the past two years without knowing what that personage's secret wish was. Neither had he devoted so much of his attention to motors and tires and car-buretors that he had neglected to cultivate the art of judging human nature. If Jake were any judge—and Jake thought he was—a woman didn't go to hear a man speak if she was wholly indifferent to him. Also a woman didn't fuss and worry about a man's overshoes if she hated him.

"I wish you a pleasant journey, Mrs. Slade. I guess I'll have to run along now."

"Jake, I'd just as soon you didn't say you saw me," Mark remarked as she shook hands with him.

"You can depend on me, Mrs. Slade," Jake's candor and sincerity would have deceived a saint. "You eat your supper in peace. I give you my word of honor I won't say a thing."

"Thank you, Jake," she replied, satisfied. "Good night."

As Jake opened the door the snow eddied in and a blast of cold wind sent a chill through Mary's body. It seemed good to meet Jake, but somehow she almost wished she hadn't. It had brought back so forcibly the things she was trying to forget. She sat looking into space for a long time after he had gone. People came and went, a queer assortment of humanity—women of the streets and charwomen wanting a cup of coffee—but she scarcely saw them. She knew when the door opened by the accompanying chill, but she paid no attention to anyone coming or going. When Slade's handsome figure appeared and his eyes searched the room anxiously she did not look up.

For a moment he looked at her, hungrily—sadly. She was pathetic even now, although she had changed and improved, but she did look so little and wistful as she sat eating her lonely, simple meal of crackers and milk and coffee.

He walked down the room and stood before her, but it was only when he spoke that she looked up. Her eyes showed first amazement and then the love she could in no wise conceal. A warm flush made her look, to him, almost as pretty as she had when she was a girl.

"Well, how are you, Mary?" he asked. It was an ordinary enough speech, but the tone was tender and his eyes were asking the question she could not ignore.

"Why, Dan! I heard you tonight," the words were out before she recovered from her surprise.

"I'm glad you wanted to go," he said, simply, "but what's the use of it all?"

There was a touch of cynicism in his attitude and manner.

"Of what?" Mary asked.

"Of my getting elected, and—of the whole business?" and he looked at her searchingly.

"Aren't you satisfied?" For a moment there was a trace of the Mary who had kicked open the kitchen door that day she had driven him from that cottage. "What way has it disappointed you?"

"Well, what's the use of being governor if you can't share the honors?" Slade smiled wanly as he thought of their former discussion of the same subject. "No, it doesn't amount to much after all! Jake tells me you are going to Europe?"

"Yes, it's a Cook tour," she exclaimed as she produced the ticket from her handbag. "It's a quick glimpse of famous places. We are to see Rome. We have two days there and half a day for the Pyramids. Then the Holy Land, then Paris for three whole days. I'm to see everything—to see life! I'll see the whole world in two months."

"Well, I hope you'll enjoy it," he commented sadly. "I couldn't."

"Why not?" she asked innocently. Slade looked at her for a full minute before he replied.

"I find I'm too old to make new friends," he finally replied. "It's what I've had that counts; it's looking back, not ahead. And I want to say right here and now that if I had it all to do over again I'd do differently. I'd do differently."

"Yes, I guess we'd all do differently," and Mary fumbled absently with the Cook's ticket to the world in two months. "But it's too late now," she finished.

"You couldn't think of trying it again, could you, Mary?" Slade's voice was tense.

"Oh, no," she replied as if his suggestion were not to be considered for a moment. "We are divorced and the only dignified thing for divorced people to do is to stay divorced. Why? Are you lonely?"

"No, I can't honestly say I'm lonely," he answered, candidly. "I'm too busy for that. I asked you because I care for you, very, very much. I've missed you. It wasn't loneliness. I've just missed you. And if anything had happened to you before I'd seen you again—well—my life wouldn't have been worth a continental. I want you because—you're my girl. You always were. The girl I loved when I was nineteen. You're handsomer now. My God! Mary, but you look pretty tonight!"

"Oh, Dan! Please, I'm going," Mary protested.

"Hold on there," Slade laid a detaining arm on hers. "I want to ask you something. Do you remember the first time I kissed you?"

"No, I do not," and Mary looked away toward the window where the endless process of griddle-cake making was going on.

"Yes, you do," Slade was leaning toward her eagerly. "You were bending over your mother's washtub and I—" He stopped suddenly. "Mary, if I were sick—would you come back to me?"

"Oh, that would be different," she answered, meeting his gaze.

How would it be different? he argued. "Whether I'm sick of body or sick of heart—what's the difference? Sick one way or the other, I can't get on without you—I can't. I've tried it alone, and I can't get on. And you're tired of it, too. You're not happy," he accused.

"Well, yes, I am, in a way."

"No, you're not," he persisted. "Now, then, first I'm going to take you home, wherever you live. Come on." He had easily reverted to his old masterful way.

"No, I won't!"

"Come on, there are four governors' wives at my hotel," he told her. "I'll introduce you to them tomorrow after we're married and then you can come

Expect to Lower Speedway Lap Record

on the trip with us. You've been away long enough. Come on."

"Positively no," replied Mary, and possibly she thought she meant it.

"Then you're through with me for good and all?" he asked in surprise. "Well, I don't blame you. God! What an awful memory of all those years we lived together you must have!"

"Don't say that!" and Mary shrank away from him. "Don't feel like that! It was only at the last; I was unhappy only at the last. Before that, why, Dan, you know perfectly well, I'd rather not have been at all then not to have been the wife of Daniel S. Slade."

"Do you mean it?" he asked, eagerly.

"Of course."

"Well, that settles it," and he jumped up to get her heavy coat. "We're going to try it again. We've got to."

"But what will people say?" asked Mary, weakening. "I'm all packed up to go to Europe."

"That for Europe," and reaching for the ticket, he tore it into bits. "We'll go together some day," and he held out her coat invitingly.

"Oh, Dan," She Murred.

"Oh, Dan," she murred as she obediently let him put it on. Before she had decided one way or the other he had her bag and her umbrella and he had her by the arm and in another flash she was being helped into a motor car that had been waiting outside.

Jake cranked the car, and as he climbed up on the seat he chuckled to himself:

"Well, this is the time they've got to hand it to me for being a diplomat."

IOWA WOMAN TELLS OTHERS

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Carried Her Safely Through Change of Life.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"At the Change of Life the doctor said I would have to give up my work and take my bed for some time as there was no help for me but to lie still. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and kept up my work and now I am over the Change and that is all I took. It was better for me than all the doctor's medicines I tried. Many people have no faith in patent medicines but I know this is good."—Mrs. E. J. RICKETS, 354 8th Avenue, West, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

DECLARES COUNTY MOST NEGLECTED

Assertion of Graham Taylor at National Conference of Charities and Corrections at Memphis.

IMPORTANCE OF THE UNIT

Differences in Size, Population and Interests Makes Work of Reform More Difficult.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9—The most important, and strange to say, the most neglected unit in the daily life and government of the people of the United States, is the county, according to the view presented to the national conference of charities and corrections today by Professor Graham Taylor, of Chicago University, president of the conference.

The county, Prof. Taylor said, is the center of more governmental activities and human service than of any other seat of government; in fact, it is the "rural capital of the great majority of the American people." But in proportion of the county's importance and responsibility, Taylor asserted that the county suffers from its citizens' neglect and consequent inefficiency in administration.

"This neglect," said Dr. Taylor, is evident in the faulty records and accounts, in the neglect of public health in bad conditions in county jails and almshouses, in the extortionate expenses of the sheriff's and prosecuting attorney's offices, and the irresponsible county treasurerships. Counties differ so in acres, in population and in their interests that their governments and the management of their affairs have never been standardized. Each county and almost every office is a law to itself. Legislation has either ignored the county, leaving its form and methods to be outgrown and to restrict growth, or has still more confused its affairs by a patch-work of laws making good government impossible.

"The resulting confusion and conflict, duplication and waste prevailing in county government have no where been more effectively exposed than by the Chicago Bureau of Public Efficiency in its report of the Nineteen Local Governments in Chicago and the 300 taxing bodies within the county. The whole situation is tellingly told in the cartoon picturing the bewildered voter trying to choose officials for 144 different elective positions. His plight, which seems to be about as bad as it could be, is made worse, however, by the partisan politics centering at every county seat."

Dr. Taylor quoted the 1910 census which showed that five sixths of the 2,952 counties reported, were rural, only 115 having an urban population of from 50,000 to 500,000, and great cities having over half a million population being situated in only eight counties.

"The county is also our most prevalent political unit," continued Dr. Taylor. It permeates our whole legislative, judicial and administrative organization and being the center of party activities, which through the "county central committee," potentially influences the nomination and election of officials as well as party politics. It is the executive agent of both the state and the town in registering business records and vital statistics, preserving order and doing justice, protecting life, opening and maintaining highways. To fulfill these fundamental government functions and the still more humanitarian service the county government costs the people of the United States $300,000,000 a year to maintain."

"The contracts let by county officials, and far more the fee incomes of some of them, which in some counties exceed the salary of the President of the United States, are tributary to the treasury of the dominant party, supplying its campaign with the sinews of war. In country counties, as well as in those which include great cities, both farmers and business men say, "What's the use of farmers taking time for politics when the whole thing is run by political bosses anyway," and "Politics is no business for an honest man."

"Two ways of dealing with the county are appearing in politics. One is to abolish the county government by transferring its functions to the state and town, and the duties of county officials to stand and town offices. But the county is too deeply rooted in the American systems of government, judiciary and party organization to be abolished. So the other tendency is to reconstitute county governments by home rule charters. Where counties are thus given the right to rule themselves, some of them have adopted the commission form of government for the sake of the short ballot and the placing of responsibility more definitely upon fewer officials.

O. S. SOMERS ENDORSED FOR NATIONAL G. A. R. COMMANDER

Women's Relief Corps Elects Mrs. Flora Millsbaugh, of Chesterton, Department Commander.

(Special to Seymour Republican)
Indianapolis, May 9.—Members of the G. A. R. elected A. B. Crampton of Delphi, who was color bearer of the Forty-sixth Indiana regiment, department commander to succeed D. W. Comstock of Richmond. Mr. Crampton is the editor of the Delphi Citizen Times and is president of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association. He is six feet three inches tall and has passed his seventy-first birthday. Mr. Crampton was opposed by W. D. Wilson and W. W. Dougherty of Indianapolis and Thomas B. Buskirk of Paoli but he was elected on the first ballot. Other officers were chosen as follows: Senior vice commander, T. B. Springer, New Lebanon; junior vice commander, Charles H. Myerhoff, Evansville; medical director, Dr. G. W. H. Kemper, Muncie, and chaplain, W. P. McKinsie, Plainfield.

The veterans adopted resolutions endorsing the candidacy of Past Department Commander Orlando A. Somers for commander in chief of the national organization at its forty-eighth encampment, to be held this summer.

Other Organizations Elect.

The Sons of Veterans elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Department commander, Frank Shellhouse, Indianapolis; senior vice commander, Ralph McKerney, Shelbyville; junior vice commander, R. C. Cresson, Terre Haute; division council, George F. Ogden of Laketon, Gus C. Barnhold of Valparaiso and E. C. Close of Fort Wayne.

The Woman's Relief Corps elected Mrs. Flora Millsbaugh of Chesterton department commander. Mrs. Flora Stiles of Valparaiso was elected senior vice president and Mrs. Emma Henning of Jeffersville junior vice president. The Ladies of the G. A. R. re-elected Mrs. Elizabeth S. Howard of Logansport state president.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Sons of Veterans elected the following officers: President, Miss Lydia B. Barnhold, Valparaiso; vice president, Miss Claudia E. Erther, Indianapolis; chaplain, Mrs. A. L. McConkey, Bloomington; treasurer, Mrs. Cora E. McDaniels, Valparaiso; secretary, Miss May Wood, Gary.

ELECTION FRAUD CASES IN VIGO COUNTY DISMISSED

Special Prosecutor Gives Out Statement that there is no Use to go Further.

(Special to Seymour Republican)

Terre Haute, Ind., May 9.—Consequent to the acquittal of Mayor Donn M. Roberts of the charge of conspiracy in primary and election frauds, Joe Roach, special prosecutor, not pressed all the cases in which the mayor has been indicted for alleged election frauds, and in which the indictments had been procured by Roach. He included the indictments against Marx Myers, Gerhardt A. Monninger and John M. Roper, who had been indicted jointly with the mayor, as well as all indictments returned during his services as special prosecutor.

Judge Fortune not pressed the indictment against mayor Roberts and Richard A. Werneke, prosecutor, in cases in which John F. Nugent, Sidney T. Onyett, Philander Long and Hilton Redman were involved in conspiracy, the indictments being permitted to stand as far as the other defendants are concerned.

The court dismissed the indictment against Ransom B. Phillips for conspiracy to commit a felony in connection with the option election in Otter Creek township, last July. The indictments against Earl Harkness, Henry Raebler and Carney Chess for fraud in connection with the Precinct H. First ward, election were not pressed by the court. In dismissing the cases Roach said the verdict of the jury in the Roberts case seemed to indicate that that was what the public of Terre Haute wanted, and there was no use going to trial with any of the other cases.

What He Was Looking For.

"I do wish, Edward," said the lady of his choice, "that you wouldn't stare at other women so much. It's very rude and is certainly no compliment to me."

"On the contrary, my dear," replied the resourceful benedict. "I was looking to see if I could find a prettier face than yours, and I confess I really cannot."—New York Press.

Cracksmen at Princeton.

Princeton, Ind., May 9.—Burglars entered the office of the White Lumber company, near the public square, rolled the iron safe out the rear door, evidently worked the combination, then broke the inner door and the drawers out with a broadax and obtained $18, after which they rolled the battered safe back into the office and escaped.

ANNA BELLE Does House-Cleaning

GERE

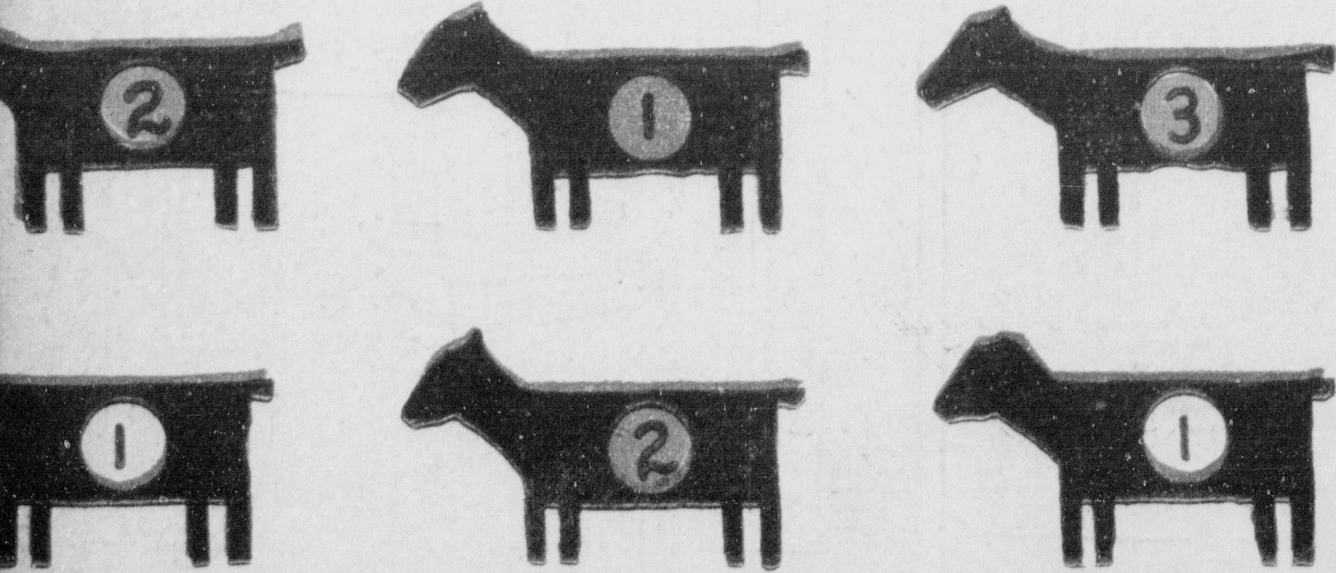

Dear Friends:—I guess you think I'm learning to do lots of domestic work when you see me doing house-cleaning, but I'm sure I enjoy it and can now help my mama so much more than before. Mama didn't want me to beat the rugs, as she had a man engaged to do them, but I insisted on doing the small ones anyway. I think I did finely for my first real attempt at housework. The curtains and everything look so clean and bright now. I'm showing a big and small rug, and if you'll look right good you'll see Brother Harold hiding in the big one. This was a good joke on him and he thought he was shirking some work by hiding, but when the man started to beat the rug I wish you could have seen him scoot.

Everyone reports SEWING SOCIETY work progressing just fine and nothing makes me happier than for the postman to bring a bunch of letters, telling me of the good work we're doing. If you haven't sent for your Certificate of Membership write me now, care of this paper, enclosing a two-cent stamp for postage and I'll be glad to send you one. Or, if you're an officer in your SOCIETY will send them for you and all the members. Why not write me now? Lovingly,

You Lasso a Broncho?

At the beginning cut out the space containing the six black bronchos and paste on heavy cardboard or thin wood. Then stick a pin in the center of the circle on each horse, make a string lasso with an opening the size of the circle and the game is ready to play. The string must be 3 feet long. The player selected for first go stands in the hand and holds it about two feet from the black bronchos. They then throw the hand forward and endeavor to have the noose fall over one of the pins. Each player has two goes each time and the first to lasso a total of 3 wins the game. This is a dandy party game, so be sure and save it.
